

I'd just like to say that approving this definitely is NOT in the best interest of the American public & essentially eliminates Voom as a player in the DBS marketplace. Are we heading for a monopoly in the DBS business? Three players in the business has to be better for competition-and the American public-than two. Thank you.